PUBLIC WELCOME AT STATE BOARD OF INVESTMENT MEETING

PHOENIX, AZ – Arizona Treasurer Eileen I. Klein is inviting the public to attend the State Board of Investment (BOI) meeting on Wednesday, September 26, at the Treasury Office. The monthly meeting reports on investment activity, anticipated impacts on revenues, and future market conditions.

The meeting will offer detailed presentations on August investment performance, earnings distributions, and operating balances for the Land Endowment (for schools), and on money invested on behalf of state agencies and local governments. As Chair of the Board, Treasurer Klein recently introduced a new feature to the BOI meeting; an outside expert offering an external prospective on changing economic or market conditions and how those forces may impact the Treasury and the state economy. This month's featured speaker will present demographic research for Arizona's long-term employment needs.

"Those who attend will hear from all three Treasury money managers on our solid August performance and their investment outlook for the months ahead," Treasurer Klein said. "This is the best opportunity for the public, and especially the education community, to see how we're investing their money," Klein added.
